

Neste's tax footprint

We support the functioning of society and the provision of local services in all countries in which we operate by way of paying taxes and creating jobs. The taxes and tax-like fees paid and remitted by Neste were a significant source of income to public administrations also in 2019, when we supported the societies altogether with 4.1 billion euros. Additionally, the countries in which we operate benefited from the income taxes paid by our employees.

We comply with the applicable local legislation in paying, collecting, remitting, and reporting on taxes and fees. We are committed to following the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines, and we pay and collect taxes in countries where our value-added activities are born as a result of our investments and personnel. Neste promotes cooperation with tax and customs authorities.

In compliance with Neste's Human Rights Principles, Neste encourages social progress and development that is in the public interest, including transparency, accountability and prohibition of tax abuse. Neste does not use tax havens, low tax jurisdictions or other such arrangements in order to avoid taxes.

Our data on payment of taxes in 2019 has been compiled taking into account the points of view of materiality, confidentiality, business reasons, and cost-effectiveness.

Management of tax affairs in the Group

Our President and CEO is ultimately responsible for decision-making regarding decisions on tax affairs at Neste. Significant tax planning measures and decisions are only implemented following the approval by the Board of Directors.

Our operational tax organization is divided into the tax organization at Neste's head office and local financial organizations operating outside Finland. High-quality tax returns and reports are the cornerstone of our management of tax affairs. We complete tax returns carefully in accordance with the applicable local laws and regulations and submit them by the deadline without undue delay. All communication and contacts with the tax authorities are honest, respectful, and professional.

Neste has companies operating in Bermuda and Guernsey for business-related reasons. Even though these are low-tax countries, Neste Corporation pays Finnish income tax on the result of the insurance company operating in Guernsey and on the income of the shipping business of the affiliated company in Bermuda.

Neste has four fully-owned companies and one subsidiary (51%) in the Netherlands. Two of them are part of the historical legal structure of Neste, and subject to statutory taxation in the Netherlands. Neste Engineering Solutions Oy has a wholly owned Dutch entity in the Netherlands. This company and the subsidiary (51%) are also subject to statutory taxation in the Netherlands. Please, see below Neste Netherlands BV for its advance pricing agreement.

Furthermore, many countries offer different types of incentives for companies. In the following countries where Neste has business operations, Neste has benefited from the local tax treatments offered to companies based on local legislation and practices.

- Neste Netherlands BV operates a wholly-owned renewable refinery in Rotterdam with some 150 employees. The company has concluded an advance pricing agreement with the Dutch tax authorities on the income taxation of the company.

- Neste's refinery investment regarding the refining of its renewable products is considered to qualify as a pioneer activity as prescribed under the applicable Singapore legislation. Such pioneer incentive is an investment incentive for new, substantive economic contributions, which must include commitments to significant incremental capital expenditure, business spending, and creating of skilled jobs in Singapore, as well as anchoring leading-edge technology, skills or activities in Singapore. Income derived from the production of certain Neste's renewable products refined in Singapore are tax exempt until 2023. Other income beyond renewable production, for example income from supply services, is taxed at a statutory tax rate of 17%. Neste has over 170 employees in Singapore.

- Neste (Suisse) S.A. employs over 50 persons in sales and marketing functions in Switzerland. Neste pays cantonal and federal income tax in Switzerland annually at some 13%.

- Neste, Bahrain Petroleum Company B.S.C. and Oil & Gas Holding Company B.S.C. have a joint base oils refinery in Bahrain. Neste has reached a settlement in the tax dispute concerning disadvantageous tax judgement for 2012-2017 in Bahrain. Neste's income in Bahrain is taxed at a statutory tax rate of 46%.

Tax strategy

The task of the tax organization is to offer feasible solutions to support the Group's business. This aims to ensure that we do not pay taxes twice or multiple times on our business operations. Our tax planning is focused on business changes and implementing the Group's business strategy.

The table presents the essential taxes and tax-like fees which Neste is liable to pay or collect in accordance with the local legislation. Payments to Finland, Switzerland and other countries are presented by tax type. Each country included in the country-by-country table represents at least 10% of Neste Group's revenue. From the point of view of materiality, the table presents our global key tax figures, which indicate the significant weight of Finland and the high amount of indirect taxes.

The Group's effective tax rate was 13% (2018: 18%) and cash tax rate 16% (2018: 16%).

Neste does not report any tax expenses related to its equity accounted investments in the line Income tax expense of the Consolidated Financial Statements. The net income of equity accounted investments is reported in the line Share of profit (loss) of joint ventures. This approach is in alignment with IFRS.

The international definition of public subsidies is vague and very broad; therefore, we have not included public subsidies in our report. For example, the Blender's Tax Credit (BTC) in the United States improved Neste's comparable operating profit in 2019.

Taxes and fees included in the purchase price of a product or service, and for which we do not have a statutory reporting obligation, are not included in the summary data. If our foreign Group company has paid taxes to Finland, such taxes are presented in the figures for Finland and not in the corresponding figures for other countries.

This tax footprint report is part of the sustainability reporting within Neste's Annual Report.

Definitions of tax concepts
